- Believes that the Founders intended for the Constitution to limit federal civil government solely to the powers enumerated and did not design a path for government to grow in scope through statutory, regulatory, or judicial interference in the daily lives of citizens residing in the respective states.
- Believes that the character of nations can be defined by the type of government they promote, and that the form of government reflects a people's devotion to liberty.
- Believes that one of the Founder's methods for limiting the power of government and for protecting the liberty of the individual was to establish a clear separation of powers between the executive, legislative, and judicial branches of government.
- Believes the Iowa Constitution similarly creates a republican form of government and clearly defined separation of powers.

Ask:

What is your relationship with God?

Key Answers:

- Believes in one Creator God.
- Believes that God redeems and adopts for His own those who repent and are saved through faith in Jesus Christ.
- Believes that God answers prayers to Him on behalf of themselves and their society.
- Believes that God reveals Himself in both the Old & New Testaments of the Bible.
- Believes that God personally acts in the individual lives of people.
- Believes that the Bible reveals God and His complete set of principles for human moral and ethical behavior, i.e. God's Law.

They Understand Key Elements of God's Law

Ask:

What are your Godly priorities?

Key Answers:

- Defends boldly the divinely granted value and uniqueness of every human life.
- Respects and honors the God-given purpose and abilities of every individual.
- Recognizes parents and family as the foundation for a stable, ongoing social stability and a strong nation.
- Understands and promotes the primacy of the husband and wife relationship within the family.
- Confirms the divine institution of marriage between one man and one woman.
- Promotes high quality education of children under the paramount authority of parents.
- Agrees that the church has both the right and responsibility to address any and every moral issue, and cannot be muzzled by civil authorities.
- Upholds the Biblical principles of responsibility and accountability in civil life, thereby limiting the size and cost of civil government.
- Encourages an ethical and free enterprise system, and understands it is the only economic model in accord with Biblical principles.
- Recognizes each citizen's God-given human right to private property.

- Sees the individual, then the institutions of family, church, and private associations, as primarily responsible for the care of the poor, the truly needy, and those who cannot care for themselves.
- Understands the right to keep and bear arms in defense of self, others, the body politic, and the church.

They Encourage Self Government as a Means of Limiting Civil Government

Ask:

What is the role of government in a Godly country?

Key Answers:

- Understands that "government" begins with individual citizens exercising the virtue of self-control, which then develops to the level of family and household government, (including self-government of members of voluntary associations), and only after these comes civil government.
- Believes that the Declaration of Independence and the US Constitution were drafted by men who understood and agreed with God's Law, and who used the term.
- Believes that the Constitution creates a self governing Republic.
- Believes that the Constitution intentionally limits the influence of government, and provides protection for citizens' absolute and divinely-granted human rights.
